Oct. 27—The Supreme Court agrees to hear an appeal concerning the authority of New York's family court judges to send children to state training schools.

Oct. 29—Replacing its 1955 decision, the Court rules unanimously that school districts must desegregate "at once"; "the obligation of every school district is to terminate dual school systems at once and to operate now and hereafter only unitary schools." The ruling, which refers specifically to school districts in Mississippi, replaces the 1955 decision that called for desegregation "with all deliberate speed." This is the first major decision of the Court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, President Nixon's first appointee to the Court.

VIETNAM, REPUBLIC OF (South)
